The tradition of good food, good drink, good fun and great entertainment continued on Friday, March 26, at the Hanover Tavern when Steve Bassett performed to a sold-out house in the theatre.

Presented by the Hanover Tavern Foundation, the evening featured Bassett's distinctive Southern rock/R&B/soul style music, as well as reminisces and stories about his songs and a lifetime in music.

The concert, which ran about 90 minutes, wrapped up with "Sweet Virginia Breeze", the unofficial state song of Virginia, co-written and recorded with good friend Robbin Thompson.

Admission included a pre-concert cocktail party, featuring various finger sandwiches, assorted cheeses, bruchetta, smoked salmon, and spinach and artichoke dip, all presented on a table highlighted by a swan ice carving by Hanover Tavern Restaurant & Pub's own sous chef Kyle Midgett.

Patrons also were treated to an after concert meet and greet with Bassett.

This was the first of four music events to be hosted by Hanover Tavern Foundation in the Harmony in Hanover fundraising concert series.

Upcoming musical events include:

- Ron Moody & the Centaurs: June 25, Concert in the tent.
- Jackass Flats: Sept. 17th, Concert in the tent.
- Richmond Philharmonic: Nov. 13th, Concert in the theatre.
